Every moment of your journey toward home is a moment to appreciate. Some people believe and support the quote above and some adamantly disagree. I have found, however, instead of looking back at the bridges you crossed and the past failures in life, think on where you have come and where you are now. I said, Think; but dont reflect and dwell on them. If you look at how far you have to go and how many bridges you have to cross before declaring your life a success, then you will find yourself doubting your worth and criticizing the decisions you have made in getting to this very moment in your life. Every moment you spend criticizing and doubting your worth is a moment you have wasted. Be careful dont wish or throw one moment of your life away. The poem, The Bridge Builder by Will Allen Dromgoole, stressed the importance of leaving a legacy of character building skills and moral lessons for the next generation. At least, that is the logical inference one would make when the poem is read and taken to heart. The poem has become a favorite of business and religious motivational speakers throughout the years. As I have reflected on the poem and its meaning, I have come to the conclusion that bridge building is an important tool in ones tool chest of living life. Whether it is a bridge that offers a traveler a means of getting to where his destination is taking him or a bridge that offers a means of protection in the storms of life, bridge building is a rewarding accomplishment as we travel lifes highway to our final destination. In my first...
