English Translation of Selected Letters of Badr Shakir al-Sayyab

By George Nicolas El-Hage Ph. D.

CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 80 pages. Dimensions: 8.5in. x 5.5in. x 0.2in. Throughout the better part of his brief life (1926-1964), Sayyab was haunted with the idea of death, the afterlife, mortality and immortality. At the end of his earthly journey, Badr made peace with himself, and thereby reconciled the two seemingly contradictory aspects of Life and Death. He conquered death by humanizing it, mastering his fear of it, and by surrendering to his fate as the ultimate rest for an ailing and constantly deteriorating body. Although never an existentialist, Sayyab, at one point, entertained the idea of embracing Existentialism, surmising that it might have the philosophical answer to his existential problem: how far and how high will he be able to carry the rock of Sisyphus How long will his battle with destiny last and who will prevail Sayyab was immensely in love with life, yet his poetry and personal letters ironically convey a different message and are colored with the dark clouds of dejection, frustration, loneliness, exile and poverty. These selected letters in English translation shed new light on the catastrophic life of this tragic hero and highlight...
